The U.S. Internal Revenue Service has made annual inflation adjustments affecting many tax provisions, including tax rate schedules, that affect income earned in 2015 and tax returns filed in early 2016. The front page of this flyer provides specifics on many of these changes, and some of the key changes are also highlighted below.

Noteworthy changes in tax provisions for the 2016 tax year*

Adjusted tax bracket thresholds

For 2016 the tax brackets have adjusted slightly upward. The threshold for the top (39.6%) tax rate has increased by approximately 0.45% for both single and joint filers, and the thresholds for the other individual tax rates are adjusted upward accordingly.

Increases in standard deductions

The standard deduction remains the same as 2015 for singles and married persons filing separate returns and for married couples filing jointly. The standard deduction for head of household rises to $9,300, up from $9,250.

Increases in personal exemptions

The personal exemption rises to $4,050, up from the 2015 exemption of $4,000. However, the exemption is subject to a phaseout that begins with an adjusted gross income of $259,400 ($311,300 for married couples filing jointly). It phases out completely at $381,900 ($433,800 for married couples filing jointly).

Estate tax exemption rises

Estates of decedents who die during 2016 have a basic exemption amount of $5,450,000, up from a total of $5,430,000 for estates of decedents who died in 2015.

Required minimum distributions

The Uniform Lifetime Table can be used by all IRA owners, at age 70 years, unless their sole beneficiary for the entire year is a spouse who is more than 10 years younger. Then the regular Joint Life Expectancy Table is used (see IRS Pub. 590), which could reduce the required minimum distribution even further.
